

Job Announcement: STATION MANAGER

Rooted in Southeast Seattle, KVRU 105.7 FM broadcasts the diverse voices of the community – providing a platform to share stories, discuss issues, and empower listeners to create a more equitable and just society.

BACKGROUND: KVRU is a low power station in one of the most diverse communities in the country. Since its inception in fall 2017, KVRU has operated as a full service community station with a three-studio station located in the heart of SE Seattle. With two part time professional staff, additional grant-funded temporary staff and dozens of community volunteers, KVRU broadcasts arts & culture, information, and music 24/7 and live streams at: kvrु.org.

KVRU is licensed to SouthEast Effective Development (SEED), and is a program of SEEDArts. The station manager reports to the SEEDArts Director, works in tandem with staff and volunteers, and receives guidance from the Radio Leadership Council. KVRU is a member of the National Federation of Community Broadcasters.

POSITION: The Station Manager is responsible for directing day-to-day operations, oversight of the station's FCC and other obligations, finances and the station's long range plans toward sustainability. Duties may include but not be limited to: local program outreach and development, FCC & nonprofit compliance, personnel management, revenue generation and public representation of the station. There will be an orientation overlap with the current station manager. This half-time position is intended to be full-time with benefits as the station's revenue and capacity increases. This position is for 20 hours/week at $20/hour.

QUALIFICATIONS: The ideal station manager will have experience in management, broadcast radio, and fundraising for a nonprofit organization. The station manager must have experience in a diverse community with multiple languages, faiths and backgrounds. The station manager should be a flexible problem solver, have the ability to handle multiple projects at once, and have a sense of humor.

TO APPLY: Send a cover letter, resume and three references in a single PDF to: info@kvrु.org; please put "Radio Station Manager" in the subject line. Application deadline is September 20, 2019 at 5pm, pacific time. In fairness to all candidates, KVRU is not taking calls from individual applicants. SEED is an equal opportunity employer; diverse candidates are encouraged to apply.
